CHOCOLATE

GOURMET FROM THE BEGINNING

WILBUR CHOCOLATE HAS BEEN MAKING GOURMET CHOCOLATE SINCE WELL BEFORE IT WAS A TREND. From our founding in 1884, we've made chocolate using timeless recipes, handcrafted a selection of treats, and worked with people who delight in the results.

Yes, it's gourmet, but there's nothing pretentious about it. Just honest ingredients and exceptional flavor.

ENJOY BROWSING,
The Wilbur Chocolate retail team

ONE SWEET
DAY JOB

Meet a few of the Wilbur chocolatiers. Working from the candy kitchen inside our Lititz, PA store, they carefully craft an array of chocolate-dipped delights.

REBECCA L.

Rebecca organizes all candy production and jumps on the line whenever she can—mixing recipes, dipping goodies, and hand-molding chocolates. She especially enjoys dunking homemade marshmallows in dark chocolate (and nibbling on her favorite treat, peanut butter meltaways).

WHY EAT HANDCRAFTED?

“Nothing ever looks exactly the same, which means that every piece is special.”

MADY W.

Mady runs our enrobing line, which is a fancy way of saying drenching various delicacies in a waterfall of chocolate. While she loves working on the sheer variety of kitchen treats, she’s especially fond of prepping our chocolate-covered mini pretzels—a particularly fast-paced task.

WHY EAT HANDCRAFTED?

“The quality, and being able to see the product being made.”

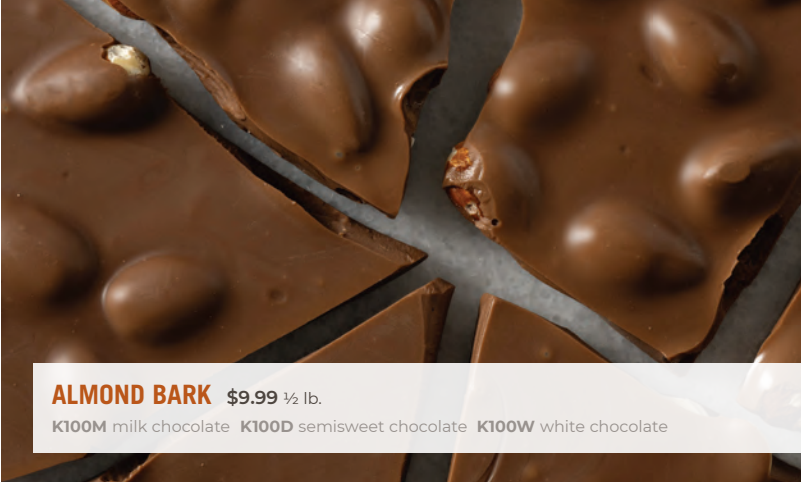

COOKIE W.

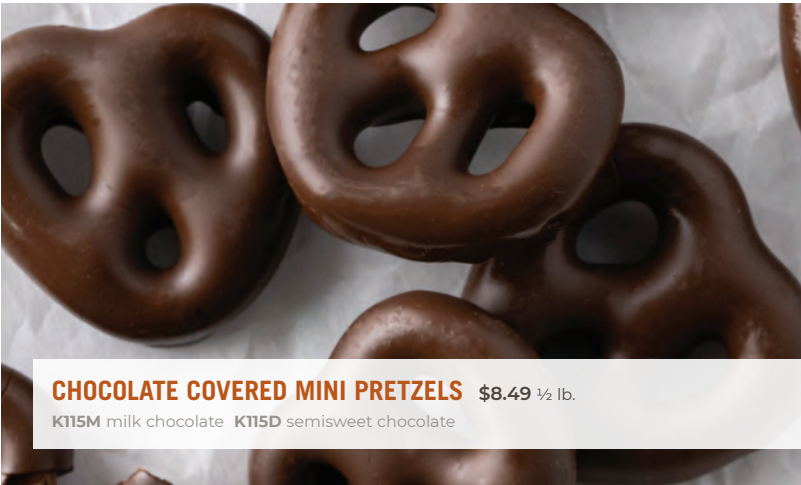

Cookie is celebrating 21 years at Wilbur, and she’s got the finesse to prove it. She specializes in finishing the treats that come through the kitchen—adding that special dollop or drizzle—and packaging them with care. Her favorite part of the job? Her fellow candymakers.

WHY EAT HANDCRAFTED?

“The personal touch and care that everyone puts into making the product.”
